

One Shared Future is rooted in the belief that if we recognize professionals' good work, build on people's strengths, and nurture collaboration, we will collectively provide better services, build stronger partnerships, and nourish thriving communities.

What participants are saying:

OSF provides a safe, trusted space necessary for affecting positive change, building bridges, and removing barriers between public and private sector leadership and teams. Working together, across sector agencies, is necessary to leveraging the resources and talent available to care for the people and places of Hawai'i.

- Lee-Ann Heely, DM, Organization Lead, West Hawaii, Blue Zones Project

One Shared Future...provided us the opportunity to meet new friends and colleagues who are fighting the same battles! Through our time together we got to learn about each other's professional and personal goals and identify ways that we can move together toward serving our brothers and sisters across the state better.
